

Surviving to Thriving

Surviving to Thriving

Dear Friends and Supporters,

2010 was a year of challenge, perseverance and success.

The major challenge was provided by the state of the national economy—and the many ways that large-scale financial failures cascaded down to local governments, to businesses and to individuals, including both agency donors and the people we serve.

The people we serve persevered against increasing odds: for some, surviving was the goal; for others, the hope and skilled help we offer opened opportunities for thriving. As always, leaving an abusive partner was a courageous step into the unknown.

Partnerships and collaborations continue to make all the difference. We are pleased to be part of strong advocacy groups, including the King County Coalition Against Domestic Violence, the Washington State Coalition Against Domestic Violence and the Seattle Human Services Coalition.

Our work with other organizations, including Consejo Counseling and Referral Service, Seattle Counseling Service and Sound Mental Health has improved our services, as it has theirs. We continue to make strides in understanding the impact of domestic violence on mental health, and in offering services that improve survivors' lives. We are especially proud of the quality of the work we do with young people—in our direct service programs, in selected schools, and through the Children's Domestic Violence Response Team.

Our partnership with Common Ground, Environmental Works, Buchanan Construction, the City of Seattle Office of Housing, and the State Housing Trust Fund allowed us to rehab and update our Transitional Housing Program facility.

There were countless personal successes. We saw young people connecting positively to their mothers and to others—and blossoming. We saw adults moving from despair to hope: facing the impact of the violence on their children, stepping out of isolation and setting goals. We are extremely thankful to all of you whose support makes these private triumphs over abuse possible. This includes local governments that prioritized human services whenever and however they could, as well as corporations, businesses and family foundations that, in spite of these difficult times, found the resources to continue their support.

We are especially grateful to the individuals who continue to donate large and small amounts of goods, services and money, each in ways that are personally meaningful. We know that domestic violence touches many lives and that the experience and passion of every volunteer and donor are critical to ending that violence, and to creating the possibility of loving relationships.

A supportive community is key: to children, teens and adults; to families; to organizations like New Beginnings. To all of us! Thank you for being part of that community of support.

What Survivors Achieve

The priorities—and the successes—for virtually all the adults we serve are increased safety from abuse as well as a strengthened connection to community and to resources. In addition, each person creates their own personal goals and receives help from advocates in meeting those goals.

Women in our Transitional Housing Program are particularly focused on securing permanent housing and increasing their ability to support themselves and their families financially. In the most recent year, 90% found permanent housing and 100% maintained it for at least six months. Most women increased their income, but they and their children continued to live in poverty.

The youth in our programs are recovering from the impact of violence in the home. In the most recent year, 94% increased or maintained their ability to engage positively with others and increased their personal sense of safety and security.

Prevention Work

In our Social Change Program the goals of the middle-school Owning Up groups are understanding and avoiding teen dating violence, sexual harassment and gender-based bullying. Students also develop the skills to engage in healthy relationships. Based on surveys taken before and after participation, 73% of students received a passing grade indicating a significant positive change in attitude and skills.

The goals of our community education and professional training services are to change attitudes of community members and to motivate action in reaching out to victims and ending domestic violence.

COMMUNITY SUPPORT

THE COMMUNITY BRINGS THE HOLIDAY SPIRIT TO NEW BEGINNINGS

Each December the community gathers to help the women and children at New Beginnings celebrate the holidays. In 2010, 22 individuals and businesses adopted 49 families and provided toys, books, clothing, games and other gifts.

ADOPT A FAMILY HOLLAND AMERICA

The employees from Holland American rolled up to our offices with a bus full of holiday gifts.

KIANA, GRACE AND KATIE

Gracie Rosen and her mother Katie, a New Beginnings Board member, deliver children's toys to Kiana Swearingen, Transitional Housing Program Children's Advocate.

OLD FASHIONED BLUEGRASS EVENT

In 2010 the bluegrass community came together for an old fashioned "hoe down" to raise money for New Beginnings. Here a group of musicians gather outside for some jamming and picking. The event raised more than $2,000.

STEPS AGAINST DOMESTIC VIOLENCE

The 2010 Steps Against Domestic Violence raised more than $4,600 to benefit New Beginnings. The event is held in memory of Marissa Peach, who was murdered by her fiancé in 2007. Marisa's uncle, Alberto Ortiz, is one of many family members to support STEPS. His firm Marshall Boyd & Associates is one of the sponsors of the event.
